

Home > Interiors > raumplus Sliding TV Door

raumplus Sliding TV Door

By Melanie Gardener - September 29, 2020

Facebook
Twitter
Pinterest
Email
Print

raumplus presents the Sliding TV Door – a sliding door and media centre in one that elegantly combines interior design with entertainment.

With a flat-screen monitor incorporated into the door panel allowing the closet door and room divider to be used as a TV or computer monitor, the Sliding TV Door won the Red Dot Award in the product design and design quality category.

In locations where the trend is towards having multiple media options such as the living room, bedroom, or teen’s room, the Sliding TV Door allows them to be kept discreetly out of sight instead of dominating the space. High-performance, compact Bluetooth speakers take the place of a stereo system, while flat screen TVs blend into media units when not in use.

The monitor, with a screen diagonal of 55-inches maximum and a weight of 25kg, is installed through the rear of the door panel. A comprehensive choice of colours and materials are available for the panel, allowing it to be coordinated with the room’s interior design.

The same applies for the sliding door system’s profiles, also available in various models that provide the door panels with their elegant frames and, in addition to this, also conceal the cables required for the integrated media program.

As the monitor’s infrared sensor is hidden in the surround, the remote control is Bluetooth allowing the user to easily activate and control music, movies, the internet and games from their chair, bed, or sofa.

The Sliding TV Door is a multi-talent that can be incorporated into an interior design for a low-key but high-end entertainment experience.

For more information, visit raumplus.com

Sign up to our Newsletter

Sign up to our Email Newsletter, and you'll never miss out on the latest updates

